

Card Stands

Why are card stands not included in this game?

There are a number of reasons why card stands have not been included in the game. The most important of these are stands in other board games can be used in this game and, secondly depending on whether or not you like to sleeve your cards, the style of card stand you will need are very different.

If you sleeve your cards, then you will want to use a card stand like the below, with a noticeable gap to fit a sleeved card and relevant token(s) into.

If you do not sleeve your cards, then you will want to use a card stand like the below, with no gap so that the card and relevant token(s) fit snugly.

If you do not wish to use card stands, you can use blobs of blu-tack, but should be aware that this can negatively affect the ease and quality of play.

Finally, if you have chosen to proxy minis rather than use the cards as figures, you can still use the cards as spare universal cards or reference cards for unit statistics.
